M. L. Orchestra in 1st Concert Tuesday

Bertha Levina of Philadelphia
Grand Opera Company to Be Soloist.

IS AT JUNIOR HIGH

The first concert of the 1929-30 season of the Main Line Orchestra under the baton of Adolph Vogel, of Narberth, will be given on Tuesday evening, November 19, at the Junior High School auditorium, Montgomery Avenue, Ardmore. Bertha Levina, contralto, of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, will feature the program with songs and arias. In addition Miss Ethel V. Thomas, first clarinetist of the orchestra, will play the Larghetto movement from Mozart's Clarinet Symphony.

The complete program includes Handel's Allegro Moto, Bach's Sici-lienne, Mendelssohn's Italian Sym-phony, songs from Samson and De-lilah by Bertha Levina, the Larghetto movement from Mozart's Clarinet quintet, Carse suite, another group of songs by Bertha Levina, and Saint-Saens' Overture "La Princesse Jaune."

Only two changes in the personnel of the orchestra have been made since last season. Miss Anna Reeder, of Merion, succeeds Miss Dorothy Jones-Parry as secretary of the organization and one new director has been elected, Robert P. Elmer, of Wayne.

Other directors of the Main Line Orchestra are Mrs. Thomas G. Ash-ton, of Ardmore; Mrs. Gideon Boe-ricke, of Wynnewood; Samuel B. Brown, of Haverford; Mrs. Charles Carver, of Haverford; Miss Mary E. Converse, of Rosemont; Henry Dela-plaine, of Merion; Mrs. George W. C. Drexel, of Bryn Mawr; Mrs. Henry Drinker, Jr., of Merion; Miss Ger-trude Ely, of Bryn Mawr; Mrs. Rich-ard J. Hamilton, of Ardmore; Mrs. C. Addison Harris, Jr., of Ardmore; Philip A. Hart, of Bryn Mawr; Mrs. Walter C. Janney, of Bryn Mawr; Mrs. Walter H. Lippincott, of Wynne-wood; Joseph R. Townsend, of Haverford; Charles Z. Tryon, of Haverford, and Parker S. Williams, of Villa-nova.

Junior Community Club Holds Rummage Sale Soon

Plans have been made by the Junior Community Club of Narberth to hold a rummage sale November 30, Satur-day, in Ardmore, at a location to be announced later. Mrs. C. D. Goodwin is president of the club and Miss Marian Marshall is chairman of the committee in charge of the sale.

"Donations of clothes, household ar-ticles, etc., would be greatly appre-ciated," according to Miss Marshall. "We would be glad to call for dona-tions if you will telephone Narberth 4087-J after six o'clock any evening.

SUB - JUNIORS ASSISTING

The increasing appearance of the Red Cross emblem throughout the town indicates that progress is being made in the annual drive for mem-bership in the American Red Cross.

This organization during the past year rendered aid to over 850,000 peo-ple in cases of disaster, assisted monthly over 30,000 disabled veterans and 51,000 service and ex-service men, and sent the Red Cross nurses into over 1,000,000 homes. This record of service should inspire everyone in the community to take one of the mem-berships—$1 for annual membership, $5 contributing, $10 sustaining, or $25 supporting membership.

The work is being ably carried on by a group of volunteer workers, under the chairman, Mrs. Harry Jacobs. The south side is in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Shaw and Mrs. Frank Wheeler. Working under these lieutenants are:

Mrs. A. T. Kirk and Mrs. G. Miche-ner for Elmwood Avenue, Mrs. R. C. Collins, Mrs. O. S. Wilcox, Mrs. Lloyd Edgerton, Woodside and Maple Ave-nues; Miss M. Runyon, Mrs. H. M. Chalfont, Chestnut Avenue; Mrs. Arthur Staples, Misses Jane and Ruth

Psychologist to Speak

"The Psychology of Punishment" will be the topic of Dr. Jessie Taft, speaker at the November meeting of the Narberth Mothers' Council, to be held 8 o'clock Monday evening, No-vember 18, at the Narberth School. Dr. Taft is author of the book, "Some Undesirable Habits and Suggestions as to Treatment."

Three Auto Mishaps Among Week's Accidents

W. K. Yarrow, of Villanova, and J. Morris Dalton, of Cynwyd, figured in an auto crash at Montgomery Ave-nue and Meeting House Lane, Nar-berth, on Sunday evening at 9:30 o'clock. The cars were slightly dam-aged, but none was hurt.

Another accident of the week took place on State Road, Cynwyd, when a truck, driven by W. G. Mayne, of Ardmore, wavered from the road, crashing against a stone wall, break-ing the windshield. Mayne suffered minor injuries, which were treated at the Bryn Mawr Hospital.

A third mishap took place when the steering apparatus of an automobile driven by L. Parker Deichler, of Overbrook, broke when crossing the bridge on City Line at Overbrook Station. The machine wavered back and forth, hitting both sides of the bridge before coming to rest. The damage was only minor injuries to the car.

Norristown Downed by Maroon, 18 to 7

Scott and Peters Tear Through Opponents' Line For Big Gains.

GOOD SPIRIT PREVAILS

By Tommy Macklin.

Coach Albert Adam passed one of the toughest barriers of the year last Saturday when his Maroon team ran roughshod over the Norristown pig-skin toters for a decided victory. The score, 18 to 7, had no place in the re-sults, for Lower Merion could have won it 40 to 0 had Mr. Adam been willing to sacrifice the physical condi-tion of his boys to that end. But he very wisely pulled them out of the fray and sent his second-string mate-rial into the game for added experi-ence, thus keeping his varsity ensem-ble in condition for the two very cru-cial encounters which are to come.

Norristown was the danger point on the Maroon schedule. The team had been pointing toward the Abington game, and after winning it by a last-minute play for the "book," there was every reason in the world why the squad could have had a serious mental let-down. The fact that they did not is no news to the world at this time.

"Tip" Peters and Captain "Perk" Scott were again the two big Berthas who played havoc with the opposing line. Tip scored the first touchdown

List Story Hour

Miss Church's stories to be told children 4 P. M. Tuesday at the Nar-berth Library will include these, ac-cording to announcement made this week: "Little Orphan Annie," "Prin-cess on the Glass Hill" and "The Chil-dren of Norway." It is expected other stories will be told if requested by the children.

Boro May Establish Own Police Force

Ordinance Creating Bureau of Police Passed on First Reading.

GET BRIGHTER LIGHTS

An ordinance to establish a Bureau of Police in the Borough of Narberth and to fix the salaries of officers was passed at first reading at the Novem-ber meeting of Council on Wednesday night. (The regular meeting on Mon-day night had been postponed to allow the members to attend the annual Armistice banquet of the Harold Speakman Post, American Legion.)

This ordinance before adoption will have to be passed at second and third readings and it is highly probable that changes or amendments will be made to it. The intention of Council in providing such an ordinance is to es-tablish local authority for the enforce-ment of borough ordinances and to make clear the legal authority of the borough when arrests are made within borough limits by Lower Merion offi-cers on duty here, but not sworn in as borough policemen.

The recommendation of the Board of Health included in the report of the Water, Light and Health Committee to the effect that Council appropriate $300 for the purpose of establishing a Baby Clinic in the borough under the

Cynwyd Author-Attorney Is Hurt in Motor Mishap

Abram Bunn Ross, attorney, writer and agricultural specialist, of the Argyle Apartments, Cynwyd, a former resident of Narberth, was seriously in-jured when his automobile figured in a collision with a freight train on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks near Somerset, Pa., last Monday night. His left leg and left arm were broken in several places and his scalp was cut. He was taken to the Community Hos-pital at Somerset. According to phy-sicians' reports this week Mr. Ross is doing nicely and his injuries are re-sponding to treatment.

Mr. Ross, a graduate of the Uni-versity of Pennsylvania and the Uni-versity of Michigan, is father of the County Farm Agent Movement. His work in Bedford County aroused much interest in agricultural circles and brought recognition from the De-partment of Agriculture.

His best known works are: a book entitled "Big Crops from Little Gar-dens," a treatise on intensive garden-ing, for the small gardener, and a book of poems for children, "Five Going on Six."

Mrs. Ross and their daughter, Mrs. Edward S. Burrell, were sent for and are at the Somerset Hospital. Mrs. Ross is prominent in Women's Club activities throughout this section and is president of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Work of Main Line Branch of Red Cross Reviewed by Mrs. George B. Evans, Chairman, in Annual Report

In the annual report of the Main Line Branch of the American Red Cross, Mrs. George B. Evans, its chairman, reviews the work accomplished during the year, touching on the Junior Red Cross, the Health Centres and the Home Service Section.

The report follows:

The Main Line Branch, No. 1, of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross has now completed thirteen years of useful service to the country and community which it represents, and, as chairman, it gives me great satisfaction and pleasure to submit to you the following report:

The Roll Call returned a membership totaling 7556. Between 350 and 400 workers took part in this annual canvas.

The Junior Red Cross reports an enrollment of fifteen schools. Many of these gave toys and filled stockings for the use of the Federation of Churches at Christmas. A fund was also given to the Federation to be used for the care of convalescent children.

The Home Service Section, the only remaining department organized for war relief, is still occupied caring for those directly and indirectly affected by the war. Eighteen of these cases are still in the process of adjustment, and the cases of orphans of ex-service men necessitate regular visits and a carefully-made report to the Veterans' Bureau.

The Child Health Centres at Ardmore and Bryn Mawr continue to show the need and popularity of such institutions, since 383 new children received examinations and advice with a total attendance of 3316 during the past year.

On January 1 Miss Ruth Cushman, the Director of Nurses, resigned after two years of service during which time the work in her charge expanded greatly and it was with regret that we learned of her intended departure. Miss Rose Ehrenfeld has been chosen to succeed Miss Cushman and the indications are that a most able and tactful successor has been chosen.

It has been the opinion for some time of those intimately connected with the Transportation Service for the Child Welfare Conferences that the mothers should assume more of the responsibility of attending the clinics whenever the distance made it possible and so the first of this year the ambulance was sold, because it was thought to be an unnecessary expense, and all the transporting is now being done by private cars.

In reviewing the year's work, there is no better illustration of the real "Red Cross Spirit of Service" than exemplified in the work of the volunteers at the Child Health Centres. Twenty-seven volunteers served 430 times at the conferences—one having served eighty-three times (Miss Constance Morris). For the transportation—eight drivers drove sixty-two times, making 279 stops and carrying 430 passengers.

The number of those volunteering in the service of the Red Cross as indicated in this review of the past year's work is, I feel, a great stimulus to the task we are undertaking and as your chairman I wish to take this opportunity to thank one and all for their hearty co-operation.

MRS. GEORGE B. EVANS,
Chairman.

Penshurst Farm Ayrshires Make High Production

Testing under the Ayrshire Herd Test plan the one hundred and eighteen Ayrshires owned by Penshurst Farm, Narberth, during September, secured the second highest production average in Pennsylvania, with an average of 635 pounds of 4.08 per cent. milk, 25.88 pounds of butterfat. Every cow in the herd that had once freshened was included in computing this average, regardless of age or stage of lactation, reports Advanced Registry Superintendent W. A. Kyle, of the National Ayrshire Breeders' Association at Brandon, Vt.

Individual honors in the herd for production were won by Penshurst Sadie, a 4-year-old, which cow produced 1681 pounds of milk, 63.71 pounds of butterfat.

News Notes From Friends' Country Day School

The second meeting of the Home and School Association of Friends' Central Country Day School was held in the school gymnasium last Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A large audience listened to Dr. Albert K. Fretwell, of Columbia University, talk on "Social Problems of School Life." Dr. Fretwell is widely known in this country as an authority on extra curricular activities.

The football team recorded a second victory for the last two weeks by winning the game on Friday from Montgomery School; the score was 6-0. A week ago Friday the Friends' Central boys won from Germantown Friends' in an exciting match which ended with a score of 19-18. The hockey team played a match with Friends' Select also and came through with a winning score of 3-1.

Assemblies at Friends' Central during the past week have attracted wide interest. Charles H. English, Executive Secretary of the Playgrounds' Association of Philadelphia, talked to the Upper School about the Philadelphia Model Aeroplane Association. Following his remarks four clubs were established among the students. On Wednesday Mr. Walter R. Faries, Scoutmaster of Bala, Troop No. 1, attended the regular mid-week meeting for worship and talked upon the beneficial results of the International Scout Jam-boree last summer.

Two hundred sixty-nine dollars and twenty-two cents were contributed through the school to the Welfare Federation. The drive at the school was conducted by the Service Club, an organization of all students and faculty.

Owners of Uninspected Cars Are Subject to Arrest

Attention is called by the Keystone Automobile Club to the fact that owners of automobiles not bearing the inspection-approved sticker are subject to arrest if they drive on the highways between November 16 and December 15. The law is specific on this point, and the Bureau of Motor Vehicles announces a strict campaign of enforcement.

It is estimated that probably half a million or more automobiles will not have been inspected before the close of the inspection period.

The Keystone Club also advises motorists who have changed their addresses since last year to communicate the new address to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles if they desire to renew their licenses. Renewal applications will not be forwarded by the post office. Nearly 100,000 applications have been returned to the Bureau in the last two weeks because of changed addresses.

MRS. FISCHER RECHOSEN

A special program held in St. Andrew's Chapel, West Manayunk, marked the thirty-fourth anniversary observance of the King's Daughters last Thursday.

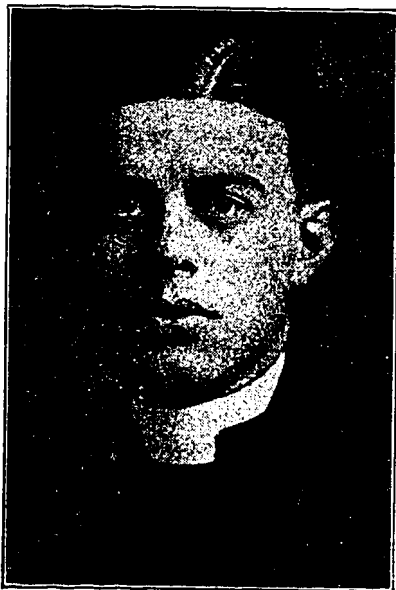

In the election of officers, Mrs. William Fischer, president, and Mrs. Ellwood Rambo, vice president, were re-elected. Mrs. Charles Brugger was elected secretary and Mrs. Charles Klink, treasurer.

The president gave a resume of the twenty-eighth annual county convention, held recently at the First Presbyterian Church, Bryn Mawr. Opening devotional services were in charge of Dr. Andrew Mutch, Bryn Mawr, with the closing service in charge of the Rev. N. L. Davidson, of Radnor M. E. Church. The Rev. Ernest C. Earp, of the Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr, opened the afternoon session, with the closing services in charge of the Rev. C. Morton Walker.

To Eliminate Crown in Essex at Dudley, Wyndale

The report of the Highway and Sewer Committee of Council as submitted by its chairman, Robert F. Wood, at the November meeting of the borough's governing body on Wednesday night contained a recommendation which was approved that the crown of Essex Avenue at the junction of Wyndale and Dudley be removed.

The report follows:

We recommend that we be authorized to expend not more than $125 for materials to eliminate the high crown of the cartway on Essex Avenue near the junction of Wyndale and Dudley Avenues in order to eliminate a dangerous condition.

We recommend that this committee be authorized to grant to the owners of property abutting on Wynnewood Court a public hearing to be based upon the four points on which they requested to be heard in their petition to Council dated November 8. In this connection, we also ask for authority to adjust the bills against those property owners for the paving of Wynnewood Court, if as a result of the hearing it should become apparent that those bills were not properly levied.

During the month of October we expended $1490 as follows: For collecting 926 cubic yards of ashes, $1054.16; for street maintenance, $17.28; for street cleaning, $418.56.

Dozen Building Permits Issued During Month

Among the building permits issued during the past month by Building Inspector George B. Suplee was one to the Pennsylvania Railroad for alterations to the station platform and waiting room estimated to cost $3000. The Pennsy paid three dollars for the permit.

Other permits issued include the following: Harry A. Jacobs, 209 Grayling Avenue, alterations, $5000; Charles H. Bartlett, 131 Merion Avenue, roof, $250; Mr. Beck, 108 Conway, roof, $250; Ross Howenstein, 129 Chestnut Avenue, garage, $1000; O. H. W. Voight, 916 Montgomery Avenue, alterations, $2950; Mrs. H. Sixty inspections of operation now in course of construction were made by the building inspector, and ten of these were completed.

Present Day Emphasis on Football Attacked by President Comfort of Haverford in Address at Lafayette

Intercollegiate football as it is now conducted was made the object of criticism by Dr. William W. Comfort, president of Haverford College, in an address to the faculty and students of Lafayette College at the ninety-eighth annual Founders' Day exercises held on Saturday. More than 1000 students, alumni and guests were present.

"It is possible," said Dr. Comfort, "that some day our educational institutions may become the home of students. Today a college is known better by the brand of football its team plays than by its educational standards. Coaches and football players are written about by the column; the season prospects, the individual player's progress, his slightest injury, his recovery, all are given lengthy publicity.

"Today too many people believe that the chief object of college is to have thousands of frenzied students and alumni gather on a football field and cheer crazily. Even the professors are obliged to make less of an intellectual demand on the student, while the football coach is making his great physical demands.

"But all of the public is not fooled. While they may agree that football is a great game, they are careful to send their sons to educational institutions where something more is taught and talked about.

"That is why so many of the smaller colleges must turn hundreds of applicants for admission away."

Dr. Comfort greatly emphasized the necessity of choosing faculty members who have a spiritual background, who will win the admiration, respect and confidence of the students whom they must teach. He is opposed to the machine-like methods of education, believing in the great responsibility of the modern educators to inculcate in students the reverence for God.

He said that democracy breeds mediocrity in educational methods.

"There is no special distinction in having gone to college, or even in having graduated from college," he said. "Only the exceptional student can now be assured of receiving a good position. Too many mediocre college men have been placed in industry already."

Horse Lovers Hold Ninety-Second Fete

Oysters and Reminiscences L. M. Society's Feature Banquet.

DOWNS AND PITT SPEAK

"You don't look very well," said a man solicitously to some oysters on his plate in a restaurant.

"No, we are not feeling very well," a waiter, hovering near, was surprised to hear the oysters reply.

"And how is everything down at the ocean," inquired the man.

"We don't know," the oysters said plaintively. "We haven't been there for over two months."

The oyster story told by S. Edgar Downs, Superintendent of Lower Merion School, was given at the 92d annual banquet of Lower Merion's oldest association—the Lower Merion Society for the Recovery of Stolen Horses and for the Detection of Horse Thieves. Attended by over 200 members, the event was held in Masonic Hall, Ardmore, last Saturday.

The oysters, to which reference was made by Mr. Downs, were not those served at the banquet. For those prepared by Caterer William T. McIntyre were fresh. They were consumed raw, then stewed, then scalloped, with turkey and the usual fixings, and then fried. Such has been the society's custom these many decades.

After the oysters, there ensued reminiscences by President Luther Parsons, of Cynwyd, and talks on horses, boys and things, by Superintendent Downs and by the Rev. L. W. Pitt, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Ardmore. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. A. C. Kanzinger, pastor of the Ardmore Lutheran Church, of whose board of trustees Luther Parsons has been a member for 45 years, and president since 1914.

The Rev. Mr. Pitt, who recalled horse racing on the frozen Connecticut River, paid tribute to horses but declared that the society's ancient function—catching horse thieves, has reached the state of status quo—which, as a mountaineer once confided to a bishop, "is Greek for all gone to hell."

The dominie made a strong plea for perpetuation of the peace inaugurated by the Armistice, and declared that every energy to preserve peace should be exerted to prevent the boys of today from facing the horrors of another world conflict.

Lower Merion's School Superintendent, S. Edgar Downs, prefaced his views on changing educational conditions by citing the history of his grandfather's family migration to Western Pennsylvania's farm regions, from County Down, Ireland.

"Conditions change," he went on. "They taught things so much better in the olden times, people say . . . I find in the year 1830 in Harvard University the only requirements for admission were Greek, Latin and Arithmetic—just about one-third of the requirements for admission to the universities of the present time. And just about every subject that was taught in the colleges and universities of a hundred years ago is being taught in the high schools of today to a greater extent, by better equipped teachers!"

Mr. Downs gave praise to modern boys. "The boy in the adolescent stage is blunt and rude—but his actions mask a sensitive mind. We can aid him by a pat on the back, an understanding heart, and a challenge to him to do something worth while—something that his dad can do . . ."

Before the banquet the horse lovers held their annual election, re-electing President Parsons to serve his fourteenth term. Re-elected also were Vice President Walter Latch, Gladwyne; Secretary Richard J. Hamilton, Ardmore, and Treasurer Dr. Herbert Arnold, also of Ardmore.

FORE AND AFT

Tuesday night at the Lower Merion Junior High School the first concert of the season will be given by the Main Line Orchestra. This group of musicians under the capable leadership of Adolph Vogel is rapidly gaining recognition as one of the outstanding amateur musical organizations in Philadelphia or the suburbs. Its personnel includes musicians of professional ability and in its concerts last year gave evidence of careful training and a high standard of performance. Backed as it is entirely by Main Line people, it deserves the support of all musically-inclined residents.

The theatre business is picking up. What with several musical shows, the near advent of the Professional Players' season at the Adelphi with several exceptional plays in store, the presence of the New York Theatre Guild and little theatre groups functioning regularly, the dramatic fare available for habitués of the theatre is vastly improved.

It seems that the vocation of "spieler" will never die. Since time immemorial he has been with us in various guises—hawker, huckster, medicine show doctor, side-show barker, confidence man and now the radio station announcer. Probably the R. S. A. will object to being grouped with the other named gentry, but after all the entire group are merely high-pressure salesmen who make their appeal to groups rather than individuals.

"Spielers" are most interesting, both as a class and individually. In particular, perhaps, because we always suspect that they keep their respective tongues in their cheeks at all times. And are they quick on the trigger? Take the medicine show doctor. After boring the audience with several atrocious acts of vaudeville, the "doctor" (we'll quote it this time lest we receive a letter from the medical society) would make his entrance, electrify his auditors with his earnest, confidential, scientific, technical, professional manner and dispense cure-alls without favoritism.

The radio speler has a more difficult task in that he cannot see his listeners, but he is doing very well, thank you. With rare art he turns you over to the orchestra or "blues" singer just before you tune in another station and then brings you back for a parting word or two before you can rise from your chair. He lulls you where the "barker" stirred you up with his noisy chatter and the rush toward the entrance of the come-ons; he has the suavity of the con man but not quite his convincingness. He is a most welcome addition to the field and, if his proficiency increases, it won't be long before we will be tuning out Rudy Vallee in order to hear the speler discourse of the benefits to be derived from using Slocum's Soap, sold at all the best emporiums throughout the nation and Canada.

Haverford Editors Hear Talk on Human Welfare

"Mass production, small profits and high wages have accomplished for human welfare what dreamers sought to achieve back in 1900 to 1912 through the agency of Government," William Allen White, Kansas editor, said Wednesday night in an address at Haverford College.

He was the principal speaker at a dinner in Founders' Hall for past and present editors of the Haverford College News. Owen Wister, of Bryn Mawr, also spoke. Davis S. Hinshaw, of the class of '11, founder of the College News, was toastmaster.

"In this third decade of the century, dreamers of 1900," Mr. White continued, "see social justice brought about in a manner that is far better than we battled for or could have attained."

We Propound a Question

An enthusiastic revival of community spirit was evidenced last Sunday night at the Armistice Day service at the theatre sponsored by the Legion and the Narberth Churches. A capacity house was the answer to the pessimists who claimed that nothing but a movie would draw that many people together hereabouts.

Would it not be an excellent thing if such a community service should be held regularly in the borough once a month on a Sunday evening? The meeting to be entirely non-sectarian and not under the auspices of any one church. It would necessitate the giving up for that one evening of the individual church services in the interests of the community.

We have the cream of the country at our doorstep—any number of fine speakers who could be procured for a Sunday evening service and the possibilities for spiritual and mental growth and vision from contact with such minds is unlimited.

Is not this a fitting subject for investigation by the "Citizens' Committee," that unofficial body whose movements made themselves felt in the agitation which developed the Recreation Program last spring?

Let's hear what you think about it. Perhaps the editor has understated the case and one of our readers can provide a better exposition of the idea. Anyway the columns are open.

The Lottery Law

The awarding of prizes by means of coupon drawings is a common means of raising money for charitable purposes, and is sometimes used by merchants as a trade stimulant. So far as our legal knowledge goes, there is nothing to prevent this type of enterprise.

The use of the mails in such occasions is, however, a much different story. Newspapers receive constant requests for publicity in prize drawings; in such cases the organization or advertiser frequently does not realize that it is requesting a newspaper to break the law, subjecting the publisher to danger of fine and imprisonment, with his paper barred from the mails.

The law forbids both publicity for the scheme and publication of lists of numbers drawn. It is covered by section 473 of the postal laws and regulations in such a complete fashion that no subterfuge or clever wording can be a defense. Section 213 of the United States Criminal Code provides that no newspaper or publication of any kind containing any advertisement of any lottery, gift enterprise, or scheme of any kind offering prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lottery or chance shall be deposited in or carried by the mails of the United States or be delivered by any postmaster or letter carrier.

It provides that whoever deposits or sends or delivers such matter shall be fined not more than $1000 or imprisoned not more than two years or both.

The law, like the Volstead act, is spottily enforced. No reputable newspaper flagrantly permits the publication of such matter, but some papers unintentionally have been offenders. Your publisher is frank to state that he has in the past violated this law, partly through ignorance of its provisions.

During the past few weeks we have declined to run such matter, even though in some cases merchants unaware of the law have misunderstood our attitude. With a copy of the law before us, its future strict observance will be the rule.

We are making this frank statement in order to show our position in future cases, with the feeling that no organization or individual would deliberately request a paper to break the law. A copy of the law is on file at our office for the inspection of any interested party.

Recently a Chicago speaker said: "A city is a place where a group of men live together for a noble end." He should have been more specific. He didn't state which end.

If it is true that General Motors stock is worth four billion dollars, we move that Raskob take care of that Democratic deficit himself. He spent the money.

UNCLE CY'S COLUMN

Another Contributor.

They're coming! A charming lady who not only signed her name but further gave away her identity by her address has penned the Uncle a delightful letter setting down some annoyances of her own that far eclipse the two puerile lists ground out by your not too humble contributor. After reading my sad pleas in the colyum for several weeks she says: "You got me thinking at least, though not for the idea of publication. . . ." Goodness! A colyumist has no honor, any communication he can steal he'll publish.

She goes on to say: The first annoyance on my list started me off on forty-one more. This brings the total for the colyum to 123. We shall call this fair correspondent "Dorothy" and hope that she will continue to contribute as long as she continues to be annoyed. Here are her pet peeves:

1. People who crowd one unnecessarily in subways.
2. People who must burst into clapping before the last note of music.
3. Drinking-cup holders when you have all the coins of the realm except a penny.
4. People who crawl in and out over one in the theatre.
5. Crawling in and out over others in a theatre.
6. Uncertain weather.
7. Bad coffee.
8. Books with uncut pages.
9. Tickets to be mailed back.
10. People who are always imagining they have just missed being held up.
11. Women's hats which deafen them.
12. Dentists who don't talk (great guns, Dorothy, have you ever had one who does? Mine never stops. Let's swap.)
13. Rag rugs that rumple.
14. Bank statement balance which is less than your check book balance.
15. People who don't give others room to pass on a narrow sidewalk.
16. Phone book addresses giving building but not street.
17. A conscience. (Amen!)
18. Limp hand shakers. (Can't we include those who act as though they were about to crank a Ford?)
19. Slow talkers.
20. People who tell every detail of a book or play, and everyone in the least resembling the Ancient Mariner. ("By thy long gray beard and glittering eye, now, wherefore stoppest thou me?")
21. Enormous photographs.
22. Corks which go in, instead of coming out. (Shame!)
23. No waste paper basket.
24. Trying to find again what you once saw in a newspaper.
25. Coughers at concerts and all who come prepared with paper to rattle.
26. All "Good evening(s), ladies and gentlemen," over the radio.
27. People who read aloud at you what you don't want to hear.
28. Adding long sums.
29. Words which look well spelled in any one of several ways.
30. Interior decorations minus personality.
31. Faked enthusiasms.
32. Untruthful book reviews.
33. Hay fever—one's own or anyone's else.
34. All clichés uttered by men on the changes of fashion in women's clothes, with the suggestion of what they would do if they were women.
35. Cross-word puzzles.
36. Operas (except Wagner) which are too long.
37. Umbrella on a sunny day.
38. Martyrs.
39. Mirrors in a bad light.
40. Picnics (Hear! Hear! Aunt Cy please note!)
41. The "Macs" and "Mcs" in the phone book.

She concludes her delightful note by saying, "The first annoyance on the list started me off on Saturday night, and I went on too easily, releasing the suppressions of years. It is a perfect pastime and you are a public benefactor for its suggestion." Thank you, Dorothy, you are most clever.

Fundamental Thinking on National Problems Urged by U. S. Commissioner of Education

Only Ideas Have Permanency,
Hon. William J. Cooper
Tells Banqueteers.

WAS ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

The annual Armistice Day banquet of the Harold D. Speakman Post, on Monday, was one of the most enjoyable affairs staged in recent years in the Borough. Good-fellowship, excellent food, lively music, oratory, wit and enlightened common sense combined to make the event a memorable one to the large gathering present.

Perhaps the highlight of the evening was the talk of the Hon. William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, who emphasized the importance of thinking fundamentally about national problems. In quiet but persuasive tones, Mr. Cooper, who was introduced by one of his former students Burgess Henry A. Frye, pointed out that in this age of change, many of the beliefs and ideals which have been taken for granted for years are being questioned. The agreement signed on the Mayflower off Plymouth Rock on November 11, 1620, government by the majority with the consent of the minority, was cited as only one of age-old concepts which are being threatened every day.

"The thinking of a people is the only thing which is permanent," said Mr. Cooper. "Monuments and buildings crumble and pass away and the only thing which can vitally affect the coming generations are ideas." This is where the process of education comes in, the speaker pointed out. Whether education should be the passing on from one generation to another of a system of standardized concepts or a changing process which interprets the phases of modern life is one of the questions we have to face.

"The white race rules the earth today merely because it is industrialized and has inventive genius. Were the other races industrialized, the white race would not long remain in the saddle. We are doing our best to convert other nations and races to our ways of life so it is only a question of time before our supremacy will be threatened."

The speaker reiterated that the thinking of a people is the only thing that is permanent, and pointed out that the difficulty today is in educating people to keep up with the procession. "My conception of my job as United States Commissioner of Education is to keep a jump ahead of the procession and try to see what lies around the corner," Mr. Cooper said.

The American Legion as a medium for the informal study of problems confronting the country was suggested by Mr. Cooper.

The first speech of the evening was made by Comrade Frank A. Schrepfer, of the Harold Speakman Post, who delivered a stirring appeal for the preservation of American ideals. Mr. Schrepfer in the course of his speech, lauded the government for its broad and just policy in regards to aid for disabled veterans, but pointed out the necessity for vigilance on the part of the Legion to see that the laws were rightly interpreted and carried out.

The Rev. Henry Clay Shindle, one of Narberth's veterans of the Civil War, again graced the Armistice Day banquet by his presence and told a story of the Civil War which was much appreciated by his hearers.

Donald Rose, columnist of a Philadelphia daily, immediately ingratiated himself with his audience by stating that he was particularly fond of Narberth since he had discovered that one of his three readers lived in the Borough. A steady stream of humorous stories and wit kept the gathering in a happy frame of mind. He cited himself as tangible evidence of the Anglo-American alliance since he was born

Egyptian Student Makes Plea For International Unity and Understanding Before Ardmore Rotary

"The biggest and most important problem confronting the United States today in its melting pot and conglomeration of nations and races in order to attain highest success for its entire population is to understand the make-up, characteristics, peculiarities of the various nationalities represented in this country," declared Barook Masuda, of Egypt, in a talk before the Ardmore Rotary Club last Thursday. Mr. Masuda is a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Masuda continued: "Charles Lamb once said to a friend whom he was dining at his London Club: 'Do you see that fellow over there? I hate him.' 'Who is he?' said his friend. 'I do not know,' said Lamb, 'that is why I hate him.' Every time I think of this story, gentlemen, I cannot help but recall an editorial that appeared in The New York Times some time ago that read as follows: 'Each time that persons representing sharply divergent national and racial views can discuss misunderstanding with the utmost frankness and learn what the other side thinks, there is a gain for that spirit of mutual tolerance which is the best antidote to national and racial hatreds.'

"Men can live—have lived for ages by the crude, primitive, even wasteful, use of nature's resources, but infinitely more of them can live and live infinitely better than men ever lived before, when they make the most of their opportunities and environment and have learned to understand each other not only as individuals, as groups, as countries, but also as nations.

"It is not necessary now to regard the people of another country by the custom of your own. It is always well to regard another's problems with some desire to see them from the other's point of view. Theodore Roosevelt once said: 'The larger Americanism demands that we refuse to be separated from one another along lines of class or creed or section or national origin.'

"Needless to say, the constant stream of immigrants coming to this country is a sure sign that the mode of living and the opportunities that present themselves in this country far more exceed those in any other country. The ships that pass between one country and another are like the shuttle of the loom, weaving a web of concord among all nations having thus made the United States the land of opportunities.

"The various lands and countries belong to the ages; they are possessed but for the brief period which marks the passing generation.

"Those different people of assorted origin are simply trustees holding their various countries as a sacred trust for generations yet unborn—the co-operation, the happiness, the diffusion of science and education, yes, the very friendly relation and the common understanding among theirs and our children's children and the millions which will follow in this country and in the various other countries and nations is wholly dependent upon the conscientious and farseeing wisdom in which we recognize honest differences of opinion and getting each other's point of view regardless of whatever our origin, creed or station of life may be.

"If you will allow me to quote from Nicholas Murray Butler concerning the international mind who said: 'The international mind is that fixed habit of thought and action which looks upon the several nations of the civilized world as co-operating equals in promoting the progress of civilization, in developing commerce and industry and in diffusing science and education throughout the entire world.' This is a new cycle of human power. All the horizons of the world are luminous and the world will become indeed as a garden and a paradise. It is the hour of unity of the sons of men and of the drawing together of all races and all classes.

"The war has developed in other countries a thirst for knowledge, education, industries and commerce that is without parallel in history. They are now listening to voices from the West, yea, from America to which they were indifferent in the past. The war also has driven the army trucks past the mud villages of the Oriental countries and the Near East and caused the aeroplane to alight in their fields. Filled with awe and wonder, the inhabitants said to each other: 'This magic comes from the brains of the Americans.'

"The wonderful opportunities, the progress, the advancement of all pursuits have not only flooded the United States with astonishing pace, but have also reached and influenced foreign lands as well and into these foreign and far-away lands has come the West with the torch light of American education, American inventions, American farm machinery, American commercial and industrial methods and the noblest symbols of American Western civilization.

"In closing, allow me to leave with you just a little reminder of the Land of the Nile, the cradle of the oldest civilization and the fountain of European Arts and Sciences.

"The weird and wonderful Sphinx, the most magnetic monument of a dead pagan civilization, the survivor of the ruined world and the eternal mystery, representing a head of a woman and body of a lion. But of this no description need be attempted. From Pliny to Kipling its solemn and majestic presence has been the theme of a hundred poems—upon ancient dynasties of Ethiopian and Egyptian kings, upon Greek and Roman conquerors, upon Napoleon dreaming of an Eastern Empire, upon battle and pestilence, upon the ceaseless misery of the Egyptian race, upon keen-eyed travelers, and upon all the Sphinx has watched and watched and is still watching with the same earnest eyes and determination and the same sad face.

"And we, we shall die and still this shapeless rock will be watching the works of the new busy race with those same earnest eyes and the same tranquil everlasting face as it has for the past four thousand years."

Reciprocity Lunch to Be on Tuesday

Guest Speakers and Special Musical Program Arranged
By Club.

TAKES IN FAMOUS GROUP

The Reciprocity Luncheon to be given on Tuesday, November 19, in Elm Hall, will be one of the most interesting meetings of the club year. The Women's Community Club will be hostess to a number of club presidents in Montgomery County, and nearby towns. The guest speakers will be Mrs. A. B. Ross, Montgomery County president; Mrs. J. H. Cross, president of the Philadelphia Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Franklin Price, chairman of Literature for Montgomery County, and Mrs. H. Prentis Nichols.

The program following the luncheon will be given by the "Ernest Gamble Concert Party." They are the oldest musicale touring group extant, whose name is known wherever good music is loved. Its tours have extended all over the civilized world, and include twenty-two crossings of the Atlantic. Knowing that audiences listen with their eyes as well as their ears, this company has revolutionized its program presentation. It vitalizes, visualizes and dramatizes the classics. Each selection becomes a miniature drama costumed by Eaves, of New York, with specially-painted scenes, with lighting effects from a battery of spotlights, and, done with action, the program becomes a series of musical portraits.

The combination of soprano, basso and violin is an ideal one offering much variety in the way of solos, duets, trios, ensemble numbers and songs with obligato. This is unusual opportunity for club members and guests.

W. H. M. S. to Meet

'Christian Doctrine Practical,' Said Late Thomas E. Mitten in an Interview With Rev. Wm. Powell, of Gladwyne

Quest for material for an essay on the Social Teachings of Jesus as applied to Modern Industry led its author, the Rev. William Powell, of Gladwyne, to interview the late Thomas E. Mitten, president of the P. R. T.

Mr. Powell, who is rector of St. Joseph's Protestant Episcopal Chapel at Gladwyne, learned that Mr. Mitten was an Episcopalian and that he was not a good churchman since he felt that the church lacked a constructive plan of action in Social Service.

"It can be demonstrated to the business man that the Christian doctrine is practical," Mr. Mitten told Mr. Powell. "I have been trying to carry out my plans for thirty years on the basis of a square deal between man and man. The plan I believe is practical and can be worked out everywhere. It is the real hope of Christianity. Men are naturally selfish. They must be so for a purpose. It is not accidental that we have certain desires. There must be something worthwhile in them, or we wouldn't have them.

"All seek self-advancement, and in seeking self-advancement in the proper way the individual also advances the community. Man in improving himself improves others. The church has forgotten the real significance of Christ's teachings and it must come back to them if it expects to accomplish anything. Don't give anything to a man unless he knows how to use it. Give a man a chance and make him realize that he will get as he gives. Prove to him that you are sincere."

Not Necessary

Attention of residents of Narberth is called by the Harold Speakman Post, American Legion, to activities of an organization calling itself the Disabled Veterans Relief Corps. This outfit presumably exists to extend relief to veterans and dependents, but is selling books for profit. This organization has no members except a few officers who have already been paid salaries. The Legion feels that there is no need for another organization in the field of relief work and this particular one should be prosecuted for using the preamble of the Legion's constitution without permission.

and bred an Englishman and had married an American girl.

In the concluding speech Fletcher W. Stites, who had attended the banquet of the Norristown Post earlier in the evening and brought the greetings and good wishes of that Post to the Harold D. Speakman Post, drew upon his experiences of the past summer when in France and England. In a few words he made a strong plea for unity of the English-speaking peoples.

The Legion's new Commander, Arthur L. Cooke, presided at the banquet as toastmaster and introduced the several past commanders who were present. A presentation of the immediate past commander's medal was made to W. Russell Green by Comrade Harry A. Simpson. Invocation was given by the Rev. Robert E. Keighton, the Post's chaplain. Music was provided by Jerry Blackwell's orchestra and McAllister was the caterer.

Large Throng Attends Community Service

Steps Toward World Peace
Reviewed by Robert F. Whyte.

TOOK CHEYNEY'S PLACE

A gathering of about 700 residents of Narberth assembled Sunday night at the Narberth Theatre for the Armistice Day Community Service sponsored by the American Legion and the Narberth churches.

Due to sudden illness the scheduled speaker, Dr. Edward P. Cheyney, of the University of Pennsylvania, was unable to be present, but his place was most ably taken by Robert F. Whyte, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia.

In his address Mr. Whyte reviewed the steps which have been made by the leading nations of the world toward permanent peace. He cited Premier Ramsay MacDonald's recent visit to the United States and compared the respective lives of Herbert Hoover and Mr. MacDonald. Striking similarities in education and early training were shown in the lives of the two leaders of the English speaking peoples which have strengthened their mutual desires for world peace.

The Rev. Robert E. Keighton was chairman of the service which was opened and closed with organ numbers by Miss Celeste Warren. Miss Ernestine B. Bacon, of Merion Avenue, sang two soprano solos, and there was also singing by the audience. A scout bugler blew taps at the conclusion of the service. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Cletus A. Senft, of the Lutheran Church, and prayer was made by the Rev. John Van Ness, of the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Samuel MacAdams, of the Methodist Church, read the Scripture lesson. The offering taken was for the benefit of the disabled veterans.

Informal Forum to Meet Next Thursday

A group of interested people, who attended the Forum discussions at the Baptist Church on Sunday evenings in October, met Rev. Robert E. Keighton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Wood last Thursday evening. It was decided to continue the discussions, using "The Modern Use of the Bible," by Fosdick, as the basis for the continuing study and talks. The next meeting of the Forum will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. Russell Green, 440 Woodbine Avenue, at 8 o'clock on the evening of Thursday, November 21. The Forum is not a club nor a definitely defined group. It does not have any denominational basis or aims.

Although its meetings are to be held in private homes, they will be open to any persons who care to attend. Any one planning to attend the next meeting would do well to read in advance the second and third chapters of Mr. Fosdick's book, a copy of which is available in the community library.

The dedication of the new chapel of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Overbrook, the gift of Miss Mara Louise Wilson, in memory of her father, Dr. Benjamin B. Wilson, well-known Philadelphia physician, and her mother, Mrs. Mara Louise Wilson, took place last Wednesday morning. The Right Rev. Bishop O'Hara blessed the chapel. The chapel foundation was originally begun by the Children of Mary of the former convent at 1819 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Sparton Radio Programme
Every Monday night from 8.30 to 9.30 over Station WIP, Phila. "Irv." Casper and His Sparton Ambassadors.

There are no
two ways about it...

The public knows what it wants in radio. Tremendous increase in Sparton sales proves that the public in this community unmistakably wants Sparton in preference to any other radio.

There's nothing mysterious about Sparton leadership. Here, at last, is a radio that combines exclusive engineering features with advanced acoustical design for the perfect reproduction of sound. A radio receiving set made by master craftsmen; every part produced and guaranteed by a manufacturer for 30 years a leader in the electrical industry. A set that's free from annoying hum and distortion—the acknowledged standard of perfection in radio.

Through the new Sparton Equasonne circuit, pronounced the marvel of radio engineering, Sparton provides equal selectivity on all wave lengths with fidelity of reproduction undreamed of heretofore.

Words can only explain the technical superiority of a Sparton Radio. You must actually hear it to experience that thrill of being face-to-face with the warmth, the very living, breathing presence and personality of the performers.

May we provide this thrill? We'll gladly demonstrate the Sparton—in your own home, if you prefer. Why not ask or phone for a demonstration today? There's no obligation to buy.

Growing Youngsters

need

plenty of GOOD BREAD

Happy, romping children. They play hard all day long. And it's fine for them as long as they get plenty of sleep and good food.

When these little tots finish their games they'll find a neat stack of honey and butter sandwiches made, of course, with Kew-Bee Sliced Bread.

It's so easy now to make sandwiches for the youngsters that Mother likes to do it. In fact, it's so simple that the youngsters can do it themselves. Have a loaf of Kew-Bee Sliced Bread handy all the time.

Community Library to Observe Book Week

Beginning next week, Sunday, the 17th, the library in Narberth will unite with many churches, schools and libraries throughout the country in concentrating on what the library considers the most important phase of its activities, encouraging in young people the love of good books.

Each year this work has become more and more interesting, more and more satisfying, for each year has seen an increasing number of books for children which have been written by the best writers of today, illustrated by artists of established reputation, and printed by houses who make typography an art.

When such authors as Kipling, Hugh Lofting, A. A. Milne, Charles J. Finger, Charles Boardman Hawes and Elsie Singmaster engage their talent in writing for children, and such artists as N. C. Wyeth, Willie Pogany, Maxfield Parrish, Randolph Caldecott and Rockwell Kent contribute their skill in illustrating not only new books, but the older classics as well, it would be an unusual child that would fail to respond.

All next week the library will display for the benefit of children and adults the books which Miss Church and Miss Folette, the librarians, have purchased for this occasion. Among them there are many that would be desirable as Christmas gifts, and adults may take this opportunity to look them over for suggestions in preparing their Christmas lists. The librarians will willingly state the prices of the books to each one who asks. The display will continue all through the week and every one is invited to visit the library to examine the books as leisurely as may be desired.

Norristown Downed by Lower Merion, 18 to 7

after an uninterrupted march of 75 yards down the field by the Maroon. He took the ball off tackle from the 20-yard line and, after passing the scrimmage line, could not be headed by the secondary defense which grouped to cut him off. Two men stood almost on the goal line to box him, but he changed his pace so beautifully that neither man put his hands on him.

Captain Scott scored the other two touchdowns by pile-driving methods through the line.

Even the Norristown spectators in some quarters quit yelling for their favorite team and began begging Lower Merion to keep the first team in the line-up and make it sixty to nothing. Remarks which floated over the heads of those in front were to the effect that "there is a team that is well coached and knows its football."

While the fact that Lower Merion was scored upon for the first time this season does not materially matter, still, it is too bad that this should have to be. Coach Adam did the right thing to take out his first-string line-up with such a big lead, and prevent the possibility of any injury to his star players, but those who saw the contest know that if they had stayed in the score would have been larger than it was and Norristown would not have been in position to put across her touchdown, barring breaks.

The Blue from the county seat may well be proud of the fact that they were the first and only ones to cross the Maroons' goal line thus far this season. They are also to be congratulated upon the efficient and sportsmanlike manner in which the game was conducted. It was one of the cleanest games of the year, and the boys on the Norristown team were penalized only ten yards during the game. The penalties on Lower Merion were for minor infractions also, and the whole situation speaks well for relations of good will continuing between the two institutions in the future.

auspices of the Woman's Community Club, was referred back to the Board of Health for its further consideration and recommendation. It was felt that the appropriation should not be granted until it was made perfectly evident that the duplication of equipment for a Baby Clinic in the borough was justified and that there was a strong sentiment for the establishment for such a clinic.

The lighting of the Narberth business district will be increased as a result of the adoption of the recommendation of the Water, Light and Health Committee. The candlepower of six lights on Essex, Forest and Narberth Avenues will be increased from eighty to 250. A new lighting standard will be placed on Haverford Avenue at the corner of the Nash office and another fixture on the north side of Haverford Avenue will be moved about twenty feet to equalize the lighting on that side of the street. All of the Haverford Avenue lights will then be 600-candlepower. The lights at the corners of Wynnewood and Sabine and Wynnewood and Rockland Avenues will also be increased from eighty to 250-candlepower, which is the same as the new lights on the Narberth Avenue bridge.

The report of the borough Tax Collector, Edwin P. Dold, indicated that 1928 taxes outstanding amounted to $960.85, while those for 1929 still to be collected amount to $28,709.49.

The budget of the Recreation Board for the year 1930 was presented to Council, the amount totaling $2800. Half of this is to be appropriated by Council and half by the School Board.

Although no definite action was taken, Council indicated that a request from the trustees of the Narberth Community Library for an increase of $500 in its appropriation for the ensuing year could not be granted.

Notes From Lower

Merion Junior High

Lower Merion Junior High School finished its home soccer schedule by downing Upper Darby Junior High by a 1 to 0 score Tuesday afternoon at Ardmore. Dominic DiNatali, lanky halfback, kicked the winning pointer in the third quarter by an angle shot after the two teams had battled through a scoreless first half.

* * *

The Orange and Black failed to win at West Chester last Friday when her football team journeyed to that distant city to take on the Junior High outfit sporting the colors of the Garnet and White. Coach Mattis' boys outplayed the enemy, taking the ball to the three-yard stripe three times during the game, but each time something happened to keep them from making the necessary distance for a score. West Chester sported a heavy, fast-clicking, intelligent backfield, which should develop into some worthy talent for the high school squad next year.

* * *

Principal Edward H. Snow spoke to the Parent-Teachers' Association of Norristown last Thursday afternoon on the subject of "New Ideas in Discipline" and spoke again to a Norristown audience Tuesday of this week on the same subject.

MRS. J. H. BEYRS

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for Mrs. J. H. Beyrs, 5433 Media Street, Philadelphia, who died last Thursday after a brief illness. Interment was made in Montrose Cemetery. The services were attended by Postmaster J. B. Nesper and others of the Narberth Post Office staff. Mrs. Beyrs was the wife of J. H. Beyrs, messenger and special delivery clerk at the post office.

MRS. BIRDIE A. LARMOUR

Funeral services were held at Pittsburgh, Pa., for Mrs. Birdie A. Larmour, of 115 Dudley Avenue, Narberth, daughter of William T. Murphy, of Pittsburgh, last Friday. Interment private.

Bryn Mawr Bowling

and Billiard Palace

Centre of Activity

The Bryn Mawr Billiard and Bowling Palace is fast becoming the gathering place for bowling and billiard fans from all sections of the Main Line and Haverford Township.

Haverford Township League bowlers had their inning on Monday night, the outcome of which was South Ardmore East won three games from Ardmore Park, while Merwood won the same number from South Ardmore West. South Ardmore East succeeded in winning one out of three from Merwood Park.

During the past week several high scores have been rolled by local bowlers. McCreary tops the list with 257, Hall rolled 253, while Cannon ran up a total of 242.

Manager Delaney is forming a house league and team entries are coming in fast. Further information may be obtained by calling Bryn Mawr 1729.

In the billiard room Al Hale seems to be carrying away all the honors. He has become so expert with the cue and ivories that he has issued a challenge to all comers for a hundred-point match.

Match games are also being planned between other local billiard stars, who have been making high runs on the new tables.

Although the billiard room has not been as popular as the bowling alleys, some fine games have been played.

Ladies have been patronizing both places and several have arranged for instruction in the art of billiards as well as bowling. Competent instructors are on duty every afternoon and evening for those wishing to learn the fine points of both games.
